DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of claims 18-33 and cancellation of the other claims in Paper No. 9 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 18-21, 23-26, 30 and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Li et al (US Patent No 6,105,588).

Li et al teach a method as claimed. See entire reference, especially Fig. 1, the related description and columns 3-7.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

7. Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Li et al (US Patent No 6,105,588).

Li et al teach a method as claimed except for the specifically claimed bias power. See entire reference, especially Fig. 1, the related description and columns 3-7.

However, the reference teaches that different plasma systems can be utilized to conduct the method. See at least column 4, lines 17-26.

It would have been obvious to an ordinary artisan at the time the invention was made to find an optimum bias power depending from the type of the plasma system used in order to enhance the action of the method.

8. Claims 27 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Li et al (US Patent No 6,105,588) in view of Tsai et al (US Patent No 5,292,370).

Li et al teach a method as claimed except for the specifically claimed pressure and frequency. See entire reference, especially Fig. 1, the related description and columns 3-7.

However, the reference teaches that different plasma systems can be utilized to conduct the method. See at least column 4, lines 17-26.

On the other hand, Tsai et al teach that the claimed pressures and the frequencies are conventional for the disclosed types of the plasma systems.

Accordingly, it would have been obvious to an ordinary artisan at the time the invention was made to utilize parameters, which are conventional for the specific type of the plasma system with reasonable expectation of success.

9. Claims 22, 32 and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Li et al (US Patent No 6,105,588) in view of Shinagawa et al (US Patent No 4,961,820).

Li et al teach a method as claimed except for specifically claimed gas mixtures. See entire reference, especially Fig. 1, the related description and columns 3-7.

Shinagawa et al teach a method of removing photoresists and teach that the claimed gases as alternative for the gases disclosed by Li et al.

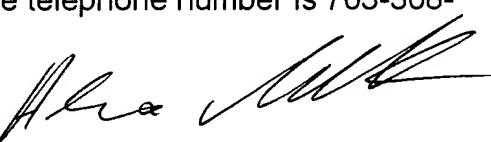

It would have been obvious to an ordinary artisan at the time the invention was made to substitute the gases disclosed as alternative for the same purpose with reasonable expectation of success in order to increase selection of gases and enhance the process.
